

LAKESHORE TECHNICAL COLLEGE

CREATING STRONGER, SAFER COMMUNITIES

THROUGH AN EXPERIENCED WORKFORCE

SCENARIO CITY PUBLIC SAFETY CAMPAIGN

"LTC seeks to increase the diversity of the experiences our public safety students face during training both individually and as a team. It is through a systematic training program using the most realistically based scenario-learning environment that we will accomplish this."

Ryan Skabroud, Dean, LTC Public Safety

Lakeshore Technical College is creating a new, realistic scenario-based training complex to meet a growing demand for skilled firefighters, police officers and Emergency Medical Services (EMS) staff within the college district to provide the ideal learning environment for first responders. The safety and security of the Lakeshore community is paramount. Training and preparedness are essential for first responders to make well-informed decisions and for responding agencies to take timely and appropriate actions in a coordinated effort. The new Scenario City complex is designed to bring out the best in current and future public safety professionals who receive specialized training to improve collaboration in emergency response and hands-on practice in real-world situations.

The LTC Scenario City will serve as a premier training center for students enrolled in the college's public safety programs while providing additional advanced and customized training to meet the needs of local agencies and private industries. As Public Safety professionals are required to make split-second decisions, realistic scenario-based training is critical to prepare students to be everyday heroes on the job.

A GROWING NEED. For over 100 years, Lakeshore Technical College has never stopped growing, adapting and gaining ground to meet the needs of its students and the communities it serves. This long history of enriching lives and strengthening the economy by preparing a workforce that is skilled, diverse and flexible has reached a flashpoint as we are challenged as never before to train more public safety professionals to keep our local communities safe and vibrant.

"Our first responders deserve the best training to take on the challenges they face every day and they deserve the best facilities to learn in and practice in. We could stage a house fire that involves fire department first responders, EMS responders, and police, just as they respond on a normal day. Training together helps LTC students gain the experience needed for emergency response instead of working it out during the height of the actual situation."

Todd Blaser, Fire Chief, City of Manitowoc

LTC currently offers basic and advanced public safety degree programs in Criminal Justice-Law Enforcement, Emergency Medical Technician, Emergency Medical Technician – Paramedic, Fire Medic and Security and Corrections. The premier Scenario City complex, to be developed on five acres on the Cleveland campus, will provide public safety students and professionals with the best collaborative training possible so they can react appropriately in the field, regardless of the situation. Plans include diversity in building occupancy types to permit the widest array of scenario-based individual and team training.

The new LTC Scenario City will ensure that emergency responders who graduate from LTC have the quality set of skills needed to walk the streets and keep our communities even safer.

"I knew that I wanted to work in a career field that makes a difference, but being an EMT comes with its own challenges. Every call is a new experience and I need to be as skilled as possible because someone's life truly depends on it. It requires a lifetime commitment to lifelong learning. It's a 24/7 obligation – I might be off-duty, but I have a responsibility that goes beyond my working hours. As an EMT, I know that on each call, I am making a difference in someone's life."
